Your family is excited to explore and experience a new culture; however, your child has special educational needs that still need to be met.

The questions about educational resources overseas keep you up at night:

- What special educational needs services will be available to us?
- How will I find the professionals my child needs? What questions do I need to ask to be confident that they are well-trained and able to provide a seamless transition and more for my child?
- What are the costs? How will I pay for them?
- What if the school won't accept my child?
- What happens to my job if I have to decline the opportunity so my child can get the services needed?

International Diagnostic Solutions was founded in 2009 precisely to help answer these questions (and any others you might have) and provide special educational needs support so your child can thrive no matter where you work.

As the first tele-health solution focused solely on therapeutic and special educational needs, we leverage today's mobile connectivity to deliver a comprehensive, holistic suite of support services anywhere in the world, when your child needs it. Our team of experts and therapists helps you navigate the special needs process and advocate for your child.

Assessment: Identify your child's strengths and challenges using formal measures, along with your valuable insights

Engagement: Develop a detailed support plan based on your child's unique learning profile

Intervention: Provide direct services, monitor and measure progress, modify as milestones are met

We collaborate with your company, relocation specialists and schools, smoothing the transition for your child and creating a solid foundation for their success in your new home. Our services are often funded by employers and health insurance companies.

WHAT THEY ARE SAYING ABOUT IDS

Middle School Parent

“ I was concerned that my child would not do well with online therapy. Now he even looks forward to his therapy sessions! I love the fact that he can be very independent during the meetings and reports fairly accurately what he did during the sessions.”

Elementary School Parent

“ Just to know that someone understands is so refreshing. I feel like you really understand. The transition to our new country and new school went better than we could have ever expected.”
